A MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

To the 2022 Graduates of G&W's Elliott School of International Affairs,

On behalf of the Elliott School's faculty, staff, and alumni, congratulations to the class of 2022 on the completion of your degrees! We have all come through so much together to get to this day, and this is the moment when we celebrate all that you have accomplished. After a sustained period of living at a distance, our return to campus this past fall let us get back to what became a “new normal”—a pattern of living and learning that was not the same as our pre-pandemic lives, to be sure, but gave us welcome togetherness and a sense of community. Your class has demonstrated remarkable resilience. You have adjusted to the constraints that a once in a century pandemic put before you, and kept yourselves going. You will draw on those lessons of resilience throughout your lives.

As we have internalized the many lessons of covid-19, and began thinking more inclusively about dimensions of national security—health, economic, climate—geopolitics made a forceful comeback. Russia invaded Ukraine, reigniting questions of sovereignty in the twenty-first century, and underscoring the severe failures of our existing global institutions to prevent or even address such aggressions.

So you will graduate into a world of renewed conflict, and with a heightened appreciation for our global interconnections; with a sense of the diverse and more multipolar world ahead; and with an awareness of the wide variety of challenges this century will put before us all. Your time at the Elliott School has given you the building blocks to analyze, address, and take action in whatever domain you choose to tackle.

And now you join the Elliott School's alumni community family of more than 26,000 graduates worldwide. Our faculty, staff, and all your advisors who helped you craft your own road ahead, all wish you the best of luck.

So Raise High, Elliott School graduates of 2022! We are counting on you to shape the world.

Alyssa Ayres

2022 ELLIOTT SCHOOL SPEAKERS

STUDENT SPEAKER

Saad Al-Tami is a candidate for a Master of Arts in International Affairs at the Elliott School. Having grown up in the Middle East, Saad developed a deep interest in conflict, conflict resolution, and international security, particularly in his home region. Saad started his professional journey early, in 2008, as the host of a children's educational television show in Kuwait. In 2014, Saad received national recognition when he campaigned and was elected to represent Kuwaiti students in the Kuwaiti parliament on matters related to education. He later pursued higher education and graduated cum laude and Beta Gamma Sigma from the University of Toledo in 2019 with a Bachelor of Business Administration in Finance. During his time at Elliott, Saad produced an educational video series designed to educate Arabic speakers about International Relations theories and schools of thought.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

Congressman Gregory Meeks, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, has been a U.S. representative from New York since 1998. He has chaired the House Committee on Foreign Affairs since 2021. Now in his thirteenth term in Congress, Chairman Meeks has devoted his energy and skill to serving one of the most diverse constituencies in the nation. He is known for being an effective, principled, and common sense leader. He is the first black Member of Congress to serve as Chair of the House Committee On Foreign Affairs. Meeks is a multilateralist with decades of experience in foreign policy. He believes that the United States should build coalitions around our interests and work with other countries to build a stable and prosperous future.

Congressman Meeks knew in his early years that he wanted to be a lawyer. He was inspired by a mother and father who worked hard to ensure that their children would have opportunities for advancement that they never did. Meeks' parents passed on to him a profound sense of social justice, commitment to community, and willingness to extend a helping hand to those in need. He attended Adelphi University where he earned a bachelor's degree in history and received his JD degree from Howard University Law School.

HARRY HARDING TEACHING AWARD AND CHARGE TO GRADUATES

The Harry Harding Teaching Award is given to a member of the Elliott School faculty who has demonstrated sustained excellence in teaching and has made extraordinary contributions to the education of Elliott School students.

Gregg A. Brazinsky is Professor of History and International Affairs and serves as the director of the Asian Studies Program, acting director of the Sigur Center for Asian Studies, and acting co-director of the East Asia National Resource Center. He is the author of two books: Nation Building in South Korea: Koreans, Americans, and the Making of a Democracy and Winning the Third World: Sino-American Rivalry during the Cold War. He has received numerous fellowships to support his research and currently serves as the director of the George Washington Cold War Group.

As director of the Asian Studies Program, Professor Brazinsky has attracted some of the brightest students from around the country and the world who share a commitment to pursuing careers related to Asia. He helped to launch a special mentoring program for Asian Studies MA students and has worked to expand fellowship and professional opportunities for students in the program.

2022 ELLIOTT SCHOOL PRIZE AND AWARD WINNERS

The Distinguished Scholar Award is awarded to an undergraduate based on academic achievement, independent research and scholarly initiative, leadership and involvement in extracurricular activities, participation in co-curricular experiences, and honors and/or awards received.

Cynthia Yue is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts degree in International Affairs with a concentration in International Economics. As a UNICEF Youth Ambassador, she helped reinforce the European Union's commitment to child welfare and launched a youth advocacy campaign at the UN General Assembly that amassed over 450 million engagements. In her current role as the U.S. Youth Observer to the United Nations, she represents young people at the UN and has led global initiatives for sustainability, diversity, and human rights. Currently, she also serves as one of thirty youth representatives in the Biden-Harris Administration and MTV's inaugural White House Mental Health Youth Action Forum. As an Elliott School Dean's Scholar, she researched the impact of human rights and non-compulsory treaties on transnational climate change litigation. This fall, Cynthia will attend Harvard University as an MPP candidate.

The Wilbur J. Carr Memorial Award is awarded to one undergraduate and one graduate student who demonstrates outstanding ability in the study of international affairs while displaying the qualities necessary to be a good citizen and dedicated public servant.

Sanjana Shashikumar is a candidate for a Bachelor of Science degree in International Affairs with a concentration in International Development Studies and a minor in Economics. During her time at GW, she interned with the U.S. Department of State's Mission to the Organization for Security Co-operation in Europe, working on security programs in Ukraine and on Capitol Hill for Congressman Joseph Morelle. She volunteered with the local Food Pantry and served as a Peer Advisor in the Elliott School, mentoring over 90 first-years as they navigate their first semesters. She plans to attend law school in the future.

Louise Liebing is a candidate for a Master of Arts degree in International Affairs with a concentration in Conflict and Conflict Resolution. She is a recipient of scholarships from Fulbright and the German Academic Exchange Service. During her time at the Elliott School, Louise demonstrated the qualities necessary to be a good citizen and a dedicated public servant as an intern at the United Nations Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs and as a member of Sigma Iota Rho, the only gender-inclusive honors society at GW. Louise has researched and published on women and gender perspectives in the military and peace processes.

The John Henry Cowles Prize is awarded to the student who combines overall scholastic achievement with leadership potential.

Emma Marszalek is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts degree in International Affairs with a concentration in International Development and minors in Economics and French Language, Literature and Culture. During her time at GW, she interned with the Peace Corps and the United Nations Association of the National Capital Area. She also served as a Peer Advisor for the ESIA First Year Experience course. A member of the George Washington University Bands throughout her GW tenure, she played clarinet in Wind Ensemble and C-Brass Pep Band and served as the organization's Vice President in her junior and senior year.

2022 ELLIOTT SCHOOL PRIZE AND AWARD WINNERS

The Norman H. Friend Prize is awarded to an undergraduate who combines overall scholastic achievement with leadership potential.

Misaal Irfan is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts degree in International Affairs & Public Health with Global Public Health concentration. She is a Research Fellow at the American Pakistan Foundation where she researches civic engagement levels of Pakistani Americans. She previously worked as a Legislative Intern at Senator Kyrsten Sinema's Office, a Development Intern at Sunwater Institute, and a student researcher at Milken. At GW, she held leadership positions in Alpha Kappa Psi as Vice President of Pledging and the Pakistani Student Association as Public Relations Director and Programming Director. She plans to pursue an MPH in the fall.

Cynthia Yue is a candidate for a Bachelor of Arts degree in International Affairs with a concentration in International Economics. As a UNICEF Youth Ambassador, she helped reinforce the European Union's commitment to child welfare and launched a youth advocacy campaign at the UN General Assembly that amassed over 450 million engagements. In her current role as the U.S. Youth Observer to the United Nations, she represents young people at the UN and has led global initiatives for sustainability, diversity, and human rights. Currently, she also serves as one of thirty youth representatives in the Biden-Harris Administration and MTV's inaugural White House Mental Health Youth Action Forum. As an Elliott School Dean's Scholar, she researched the impact of human rights and non-compulsory treaties on transnational climate change litigation. This fall, Cynthia will attend Harvard University as an MPP candidate.

The Walter Roberts Award for Public Diplomacy Studies is awarded to an Elliott School graduate student who shows exemplary performance in public diplomacy studies and has aspirations for a future career in the field.

Nikki Hinshaw is graduating with a master's in Global Communication and concentrations in Public Diplomacy and International Education. She developed a love for the field of international education and exchange after studying abroad in Ghana, and interning for exchange programs at the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, the International Center for Journalists, and the Institute of International Education, among others. Nikki fostered her research interests in virtual exchange, public diplomacy, disinformation and media capacity-building, and diversity, equity and inclusion through her academic work and as a research assistant in GSEHD's Global Education Lab.

The Edward “Skip” Gnehm Leadership, Ethics, and Practice Prize is awarded to an undergraduate or graduate student who has demonstrated leadership and ethical thinking during their GW tenure.

Dikshita Venkatesh is pursuing a Master of Arts in Security Policy Studies (SPS) with a concentration in Transnational Security. Her research interests include cyber-financial crimes and policies surrounding emerging technologies. Her work on the intersection of religious extremism and South Asian politics has been published in the Fall 2021 print edition of the GW International Affairs Review. She is a part of the Global Affairs and Religion Network’s leadership team and has served as the SPS Student Board’s Social Media Head and International Student Representative. She is also a Business Leaders Development Program Instructor with the School of Business.

The Elliott School Graduate Student Prize is awarded annually to an Elliott School graduate student who, in the opinion of the dean and the faculty, deserves recognition for academic achievements and contributions to the life of The George Washington University

Thomas Hale is a candidate for a Master of Arts degree in Security Policy Studies with a concentration in Conflict Resolution. He is a thought leader in the mineral-security space, emphasizing the role of critical materials in national and economic security developments. Thomas is very proud of his tenure as the Chair of the Security Policy Studies Student Board, helping formalize the group within the Elliott School and maintaining strong community programs during the virtual transition. After graduation, Thomas is looking forward to working in the critical minerals sector and developing an organization to monitor and address these emerging threats.
